Answer sheet

Question 1:

You took a brilliant video of your friends having a water balloon fight and want to share it on the internet. Who should you ask before you upload it?

Answer C: Your parents or carers

Your parents and carers will need to check that the video is suitable to go on the internet and that it doesn't give away any personal information about you or your friends. They may want to check that your friends' parents are happy with it too.

Question 2:

You are playing an online game and someone you don't know wants to add you as a friend. What do you do?

Answer B: Let your parents or carers know, so they can check who it is.

Even if you asked some questions, people online may not be who they say they are and can pretend to be someone different. Therefore it is not a good idea to accept friend requests from strangers. Let your parents or carers know about all friend requests that you get, and they can help you decide if they are from people that you know already.

Question 3:

You have entered a photo into an online competition and someone has left an unkind comment. What do you do?

Answer A: Get a trusted adult to help you straight away

It is never a good idea to reply to mean comments as that can make things worse. An adult can help you deal with the situation and report the comment that has been made, so that it can be removed. You may also have the option to block the person that made the comment, so they can't contact you again.

Question 4:

Your best friend has given you her password and wants to know yours. What do you do?

Answer B: Say that you can't share your password because it's just for you

The only people that need to know your passwords are your parents and carers. It is not a good idea to share passwords with your friends, even your best friends, because they are part of your personal information. It is not necessary to share passwords and you can still be good friends without doing so. Your best friend should change her password too.

Question 5:

Someone from another school wants to meet you at the playground, so you can hang out together. You know their name but haven't met before. What should you do?

Answer C: Let your parents / carers know straight away

If anyone that you don't know asks you to meet up, then you must tell your parents or carers immediately. Never meet up with someone who you don't know, with or without your friends as you might be putting them in danger too. An adult will be able to decide what to do.

Question 6:

Who should you talk to FIRST if you feel worried about something that you've seen or heard online?

Answer A: A trusted adult

Friends can often give you good advice but might not always know what to do for the best. An adult that your trust, such as a parent, carer or teacher should always be the first person that you turn to.

Question 7:

How can you be a good friend to others online?

Answer C: Both of these things!

Try to set a brilliant example online by being kind, positive and caring towards others. If your friend has a problem, encourage them to talk to their parents or carers, or a teacher, so that they get the best help straight away.
